Dear Gary,

In a letter to my publisher's managing editor Tom Alyea went out of this way, none of it being necessary, to say I write what is not true, do that for profit and to exploit the assassination, etc.

Apparently she asked him for a print of the picture I'd asked him for. All he had to do is say "no" or as he did to me, not respond at all.

That was a month and a half ago and had no relationship to what she sent me so I think I got it by accident.

You can gather other stupidities in his letter from the enclosed copy of my response.

I can only wonder what kind of schmuck Alyea is.

In any event, I could not ignore it.

And I think he'll realize that I didn't!

Best,

Harold
